

Sironko Digital Village, Uganda

Youth for Technology Foundation (YTF) is an international non-profit organization established in 2000. YTF's mission is to transform rural communities into enriched learning environments in which technology used appropriately enhances and expands opportunities for marginalized youth. YTF achieves its mission by providing technology leadership and entrepreneurship training to young people. The Sironko Digital Village is YTF's first community technology and learning center in East Africa.

If you have questions or need more information on any items on this list, please contact the Sironko Digital Village planning team at sironko@youthfortechology.org. Thank you for giving generously.
